“ My Mom, Rosalie Monti and Bobby (Biaggio) Ippolito were first cousins. My Mom's Mom was Alice Ippolito and Biaggio's Dad was Peter Ippolito. Alice and Peter were siblings. My Mom was an only child and passed in 1984. Bobby was more than a cousin to my Mom, he was a brother to her. They did everything together and there are many stories and pictures of Rosalie and Bobby together as young children. Rosalie adored Bobby. My memories of Bobby are similar to Linda Ippolito's. I always knew when he was coming over because my Mom would get so excited saying Cousin Bobby is coming over. It usually meant something needed fixing in the house and he would show up with a big smile and giant toolkit in hand and magically fix whatever was broken. And then my Mom and Bobby would sit and drink coffee, telling stories and laughing together. In later years, Donna Ippolito (Biaggio's daughter who passed so very young, some years after my Mom) and my Mom (Rosalie) worked together on Wall St. This was a random act of fate as my Mom would come home telling me stories of work antics and stories of how sweet Donna was. I like to believe we all find each other in the many lives we journey through, a circle of soulmates and family who reappear and affect us in so many beautiful ways. RIP Cousin Bobby. I hope you and my Mom are holding hands and together again, with Donna, in a place where there's no more pain and only joy. My heart goes out to all my cousins. Mickey and I extend our deepest sympathies.

“ I have so many memories of my cousin Bobby. He was as was Anna so loved by myself and my parents. Andy and Violet. My Dad and Bobby's dad were brothers. On so many Sundays my dad would call Bobby because something needed to be fixed. He would wind up staying for hours telling stories and waiting for my mom tp finish frying the meatballs so he could have one or two or three. There are so many more fun memories, he always had a story to tell, and he always made you laugh. Rest in peace my sweet cousin.
