“ Dear cousin Frankie. So sad you had to leave us.

I remember how exceptionally cute you were as a little boy and how we both played together in Central Park when our mothers took us. That's a very fond early memory of you, jumping up and down with your white shoes and me running beside you doing the same.

I know in your adult years it bothered you when I would call you "Nuno" (a word I made up) but to me it was a term of affection. After all you were my cousin Frank Maldonado JUNIOR. Your parents probably called you "Junior" but me, I liked "Nuno."

The other night I began thinking about the nickname and couldn't imagine where I got it from. Most everyone had adopted the nickname "Nuno" for you and I know it began to get on your nerves. The other night I was wondering where the heck I got it from. Then I suddenly realized... As a little girl I wasn't able to say "Junior" like everyone else did, so I called you "Nuno."

Whenever you would pull a verbal prank on me I quickly retaliated with a louder "Nuno." and got you back.

I will miss knowing you're out there, cousin. I know you were a great father to your children and I always admired that.

Love you Nuno.

“ Artie (Santa) and I will always treasure the fun times we had with Jo & Frankie at our New Years Eve parties with all the kids, and the weekend vacations with the Mah Jongg loot. Frankie made us laugh and he will always be remembered fondly. God bless him and the Maldonado family. Love, Joan & Artie
