“ I didn't know that passed away till very recently. I knew him from the late 70s to early 80s he was a big Yankees fan & like me an Islanders fan. I went to several Islanders games with him at Nassau coliseum back in the 70s and 80s when team was excellent. My condolences to his family and friends.. 🌹🌸🌻🌹🌸

“ I am sorry for your loss. This is a true story. Gerry scammed me out of $1,400 by selling me Yankee tickets on craigslist that he had already sold on stubhub. Not sure if he was a good man outside of this or not, but he scammed many people out of lots of money. Doesn't mean I am not sorry that he passed on, no one deserves that. However I won't forget what he did, and hundreds others won't either.

I knew him in the late 70s & early 80s I didn't that he was doing a ticket scam that hurt many people I'm pretty shocked I thought he had done well on wall street etc working for various brokerages. I don't know if should be surprised or not..

“ This was very unexpected and sad news indeed. I've come to casually know Gerry on social media for the last several years. My late wife Annie who died at a young age 27 years ago was a first cousin to Frank Baudille, Gerry's very best friend, who passed away almost 6 years ago. Being both raised in Brooklyn in Italian-American families, we shared a lot in common. Gerry and I often traded compliments about our home cooking adventures, our choices in music, and family experiences. He had many nice things to say about my Annie whenever her memory was invoked as well as her family who embraced him as one of their own since he was a boy. He was a loving, devoted son and family oriented person and a loyal friend. Who could ask for more? He will be sorely missed. My deepest condolences to Gerry's family and friends at this sad time.

“ Gerry was my cousin Frank Baudille best friend for years. They both loved the Yankees and watching sports together. He was a member of our family. He always spoke highly of my father and mother (Bill and Lucy Archipoli) over the years. Gerry will be missed. Just like my cousin Frank, their lives were cut to short. My heart goes out to his mom and his brother and sister. Gerry and his Mom were always together, and he loved her dearly. I will miss his text messages. Love to is family Laura Tilrico
