“ Jo-Ann was my friend and I miss her every day. I was her nurse for many years and we had our visits every week. We would talk about her family, her wonderful way with crafts, her trips back to Long Island for visiting friends, and her family camping experiences. We shared a love of cats, Hodor nudged his way into her heart despite his “love taps” which left her with mini bandaids everywhere; squirrels that she showed me I could hand feed on her back porch, and hummingbirds that visited her butterfly bush during the summer. She was a kind and gentle soul who was always concerned with others before herself. I will truly miss my time with my friend, Tuesdays will never be the same...
