“ Our family first lived on Clinton Street around the corner from where Lorraine's family lived. As children, we would walk to school (St. Paul's) together. Cousin's Carol and Lorraine, my sister, Louise, brother Arty (junior), and me, Evelyn. My youngest sister, Virginia was to young for school at this point.

On cold winter mornings we would keep our flannel pajama pants on under our uniforms until the last minute before we left for the three block walk to school. One particularly cold morning when we all met on our corner, Lorraine realized that Carol had left for the walk to school with her pajama pants still on. She yelled out..."Oh, Carol"!!! We all erupted into laughter while Carol herself screamed and ran home. Also the many Sundays we spent together at Uncle Eddie's and Aunt Eva's house. We would often play shoemaker in their basement hammering brass taps onto the heels of our shoes. It's been many years since those innocent days when our extended family of cousins would spend holidays together.

Our sincerest sympathy to the family of beloved cousin, Lorraine Pepia.
