“ We were 10 or 11 when we began to hang out, riding bikes through the neighborhood. Some years later graduated to cars. Camaro's and there were a few, a few tranny's a few rears and uncle Tony's body shop where we fixed them all. It was great when I was riding shotgun, Lord knows I could never drive like you. My memory lyric " Some guy's come home from work, wash up and go racing in the Streets ".
