“ Dear Maggie, and the Willard Family ,

My deepest condolences and heartfelt prayers go out to you. The loss of a sibling is something that truly takes a piece of your heart away.

You immediately remember your childhood , the dinners at the table , the teasing, the fights the arguments over chores , maybe arguing over the TV or the don't tell MOM agreements you may have had growing up.

You take these for granted and when something like this happens they are the first thing that comes back to your memory.

Wishing you had these times back , wishing you can have that chance to say goodbye.....anyone who has lost a sibling can relate to this.

What helped me was the fact that these experiences and things shared growing up will be with you forever.

In time the pain will go away and the tears will stop , but I promise not a day will go by where he will not be with you.

God Bless and may he RIP.

I remember Richard from many years ago when we were coworkers at Channel. He was a great guy and very funny.
