“ Sally, I can't even fathom that you're gone. Growing up we were more than cousins, we were like brother and sister. You led the way for all of us, being the first born of our cousins. That was even more evident when you directed our plays down in the basement on Cropsey Avenue. I couldn't ever be mad at you - if I was you'd chase me around with cheese until I forgave you because you knew I'd fold. I'll always remember feeling safe walking to and from St. Finbar school with you as our protector. Our summers playing punch ball on Bay 20th or just hanging out on the stoop. Then you had a brilliant idea of turning the backyard shed into a hang out club(3/5 club to be exact) where we would listen to new music like Led Zeppelin's Stairway to Heaven. It seems too appropriate now, that that memory stands out to me. My childhood and life would have been duller without you. I can't believe I can't call you or see you anymore my cousin, but these memories and more will never fail to bring a smile to my face. Rest in the sweetest peace. I'll carry you in my heart always. Love, Emma

“ Dear cuz,
You were an absolute bright life in this world and in my life. I remember you and Gina coming to my house when I was younger and you asked if I remembered you, and I said are you the one who gave me the doll when I was little? And your face lit up and you were chuckling bc that's how I remembered you. I'll cherish how close I always felt to you and how funny you were , the stories of old times you would tell me about, and I'll cherish seeing you in your passion for your work, I'll never trust anyone with that again. I will continue to see your face when I look at some of my jewelry , and I'll always remember you for the great man that you were. You left a great impression on Pete , and he is going to miss you and your talks. Rest in sweet sweet peace Sal, fly high ❤️
